Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .The Indo-Asia-Pacific region is critical to the national interests of the United States. Despite our best efforts in promoting growth and prosperity through our committed presence and engagement, the challenges that we face are no small task. North Korea s nuclear tests have openly defied the international call for a nuclear-free Korean Peninsula, and the regime uses hybrid and asymmetric warfare to reinforce its survivability and to exert undue influence. China continues to press its claims in the South China Sea, and their actions have shown that it too will resort to gray zone tactics short of open conflict to achieve foreign policy goals. We have resumed our freedom of navigation operations in the South China Sea, a waterway vital to America s prosperity, where $5.3 trillion in trade traverses each year. Instead of further provocation, China should abide by internationally accepted norms and contribute to a peaceful and equitable resolution to the disputed claims. A revanchist Russia is revitalizing its ability to execute long-range strategic patrols in the Pacific to include the basing of its newest strategic ballistic missile submarine and...
